NEWSPAPER MAN COUNTY BANKER
DIES IN VALLEY MARRIED IN YORK

Adams County Resident, Formerly on Editorial Staff of Many Large City Dailies, Died in Buchanan Valley.

George O. Seilhamer, for many years a noted journalist and historian, died Wednesday morning in Buchanan Valley, where he made his home with his son, Alvin Perry Seilhamer, former editor of the Gettysburg "Progress." He was aged 74 years and 2 months.

Mr. Seilhamer was born in Franklin county. He was graduated from the Chambersburg Academy and in his youth taught school. He was admitted to the Franklin county bar in 1861.

In June 1866, he removed to New York City to accept a position on the staff of the New York Tribune and for the next twenty years he was engaged in metropolitan journalism except in 1869-70 when he was editor of the Providence Press and started the Providence Star. He was connected with the New York World and Standard in editorial capacities and from 1871 to 1881 was on the New York Herald, serving as Havana and Washington correspondent, book reviewer, music and dramatic editor and editorial writer.

In 1885 he was in London for a year on a confidential mission for the United Press Association. From 1886 to 1896 he made his home in Philadelphia as a member of the editorial staffs of the Times and the Inquirer.

Because of failing health he returned to Chambersburg in 1897, and there he devoted himself principally to historical work. He made a trip to England and Ireland to obtain material for a genealogical sketch. In more recent years he gave his time almost entirely to genealogical work. He wrote and published a number of books.

Those who knew him well always cherished the highest regard for him and his opinions, based on the extensive experience which he had enjoyed.

He is survived by one son, Alvin Perry Seilhamer, with whom he made his home.

His remains will be buried in Cedar Grove cemetery, Chambersburg.

MRS. PETER KIME

From the effects of a fall at her home in Mummasburg about a week ago, Mrs. Mary Kime died this morning at two o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Noah Fleck. She was aged 88 years and 1 day.

Mrs. Kime had been ill for about four weeks and was just recovering from this sickness when she slipped on a smooth stone in the yard at the Fleck home, falling heavily and breaking her hip. The shock was severe and she sank gradually until her death this morning.

She was the widow of Peter Kime, who died some years ago, and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Noah Fleck and Mrs. Laura Klunk; also ten grandchildren and nineteen great grandchildren.

Funeral Saturday morning, meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fleck, at 9:30. Services in the Lutheran church at Arendtsville. Friends will accept this as notice of the funeral.

MARTIN W. PORTER

Martin W. Porter, formerly of this county, died last week in Altoona from meningitis, aged almost 56 years.

He was born near Gettysburg and was reared on a farm in Adams County. In 1886 he married Miss Emma K. Peters, of Arendtsville, and three years later moved to Altoona where he has served as a janitor in one or other of the public school buildings almost ever since.

He leaves his wife and one daughter, two sisters, Mrs. John A. Meals, of Gettysburg; and Mrs. Daniel Fidler, of near Gettysburg; and two grandchildren.

The funeral was held in Altoona.

MISS ANNA M. GRUBE

Miss Anna Maria Grube died at her home in Carlisle Tuesday morning from an illness of two months with a complication of diseases, aged 55 years, 10 months, and 27 days.

She leaves a sister, Miss Emma S. Grube, of Carlisle; and two brothers, Jacob Grube, of Philadelphia; and F. William Grube, of Gettysburg.

Funeral in Carlisle on Friday.

Mrs. George Trimmer and Anthony Deardorff Leave Immediately after Wedding for Palm Beach.

Anthony Deardorff, of York Springs, and Mrs. M. Minerva Trimmer, of Lancaster, were married at noon Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Trimmer's sister, Mrs. H. F. Smith, in York. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. H. H. Weber.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Deardorff left on a wedding trip to Palm Beach, Florida, where they expect to spend several weeks, returning in the early spring to take up their residence in York Springs where Mr. Deardorff has a handsome and finely appointed home.

The bride is the widow of the late George A. Trimmer. For a number of years they resided in York Springs but about ten years ago moved to Lancaster, returning to spend the summer months each year at their former home. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Trostle. Her mother is living.

Mr. Deardorff has also been married before. He is one of the best known residents of York Springs and that vicinity. He is president of the First National Bank of that town and has numerous other interests.

DROP IN VALUES

And Cumberland County Tax Goes up to Four Mills.

Falling off of the taxable amounts in Cumberland county approximating a quarter of a million and need of immediate repairs to the county almshouse under pain of losing the state appropriation, with a floating indebtedness of $40,000, have caused the county commissioners to decide on an increase of the county tax rate for 1916 to 4 mills, an increase of 1 mill over the amount collected in 1915.

The return of the triennial assessment just completed is very unsatisfactory, the commissioners state, especially in the drop of real estate valuations. In Carlisle there was a small advance, but this was offset by the lowering of valuations in some other sections. Lenoyne property dropped in value during the past three years, according to the assessor, who gives the total amount about $40,000 less than in 1912. An estimate of the loss over the 1912 assessment is $250,000. Fewer horses are in the reduction.

GETS COLLEGE HONOR

Adams County Girl Selected a Member of University Society.

Miss M. Muriel Tyson, of Flora Dale, is one of the twelve students in the University of Michigan who have just been honored by an initiation into the notable French student society, Cercle Francais. Only a comparatively few students of the University acquire membership in this organization, and these, because of the excellent character of their work in French. Miss Tyson is a senior in the College of Literature, and also a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority.

SERIOUSLY HURT

Fall Down Flight of Steps Results in Severe Injuries.

When Miss Margaret Moriarty made a mis-step at the top of a flight of stairs at her home on Baltimore street Wednesday evening, she fell headlong to the first floor where she was picked up in an unconscious condition. It is believed that there is a severe concussion of the brain. There is no indication of a fracture of the skull and a marked improvement is noted in her condition to-day.

FOR RELATIONS WITH DICKINSON

Efforts Under Way to Resume Athletic Contests between Gettysburg and Carlisle Institution. College News.

During the past year there has been some agitation among both Gettysburg and Dickinson alumni favorable to the resumption of athletic relations between the two colleges. At the last meeting of the Gettysburg Alumni Club of Pittsburgh a resolution was passed favoring this proposition.

In view of this situation the Gettysburg Athletic Council decided to send the Dickinson authorities as to the possibility of arranging for a football game with Dickinson next fall. In due time a reply was received stating that their football prospects for the immediate future were at such a low ebb that they did not feel that Dickinson could make a creditable showing against Gettysburg next year. Therefore the offer was declined.

There was no disagreement whatever regarding the rules proposed to govern the contest. There is every reason to believe that a football game with Dickinson will be scheduled for 1917.

The first number of the Free Lecture Course will be given this evening when Dr. H. R. Shipperd, head of the department of English, will speak on "The Place of Literature in College." The people of town as well as those connected with the institution are invited to this lecture and to those which will follow. The hour is 8:15.

The basket ball team leaves Friday on the first of its trips for this season. They will play the Catholic University at Washington on Friday evening, and St. John's at Annapolis Saturday evening. Next week they take a trip including Juniata, Susquehanna, and Bucknell. The team is traveling at good speed now and is expected to give a good account of itself in the coming games.

Before an enthusiastic crowd the Hinton-Verdi Concert Company gave the third number of the College Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course, in Brua Chapel, last evening. Mr. Verdi's artistic playing of the accordion and manipulation of the "one-man-band" were very enthusiastically received. Miss Hinton's selections covered a wide variety of characters and showed remarkable versatility.

Both the mandolin club and the glee club are holding regular practice preparatory to their mid-winter trip. The arrangement of a tour is now in progress and the itinerary will be announced shortly. It is expected.

REFUSED TWO

And Fulton County will Have only Three Licensed Places.

Judge McPherson and his associates in Fulton County on Wednesday granted three licenses and refused two, one of the latter being a new application. The other one refused was at Fort Littleton, against which no remonstrance had been filed, but questioning elicited the information that receipts were frequently less than $1.00 a day, and that, in the eyes of the Court, indicated that there was no necessity for the place. Remonstrances on the ground of lack of necessity were filed against the other four. The licenses granted are at Fulton House and City Hotel, McConellsburg, and at Burnt Cabins. The new application refused was that of ex-Sheriff Harris for McConellsburg.

MORE SCARLET FEVER

Three Cases Reported. Some of the Schools Closed.

The Federal Schools have been closed for the remainder of the week following the discovery of two cases of scarlet fever in the family of William F. Collier, York street. Marie Collier and John Collier are the two patients.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. has been equally great, almost seven days ill with scarlet fever. By subpoena, having been served, the father has been a quarantined. The little girl had not been well for some time and, as a precautionary measure, she and the other children of the family were kept out of school, so that the board of education did not regard fumigation. In the public health report April 18, 1915, S. D. Davis reports twenty cases.

LEAGUE MEETING ON NEXT MONDAY

And Committees from Two New Towns will be Present to Bring up Question of Joining Last Year's Circuit.

President Charles W. Boyer announced Wednesday night that the annual Blue Ridge League meeting would be held on Monday afternoon, January 17, beginning at 1 o'clock in Mr. Boyer's office in Hagerstown.

President Boyer states that representatives from Cumberland and Frostburg will be present and will endeavor to join the Blue Ridge League. Representatives from all of the other towns now belonging to the league will be present.

The Cumberland Press contains the following comment:

The annual meeting of the Cumberland base ball club will be held Friday evening at the Arlington Hotel, at which time plans looking to entering the Blue Ridge League this season will be discussed. Several representatives will be named to attend the annual meeting of the Blue Ridge League magnates which will be held in Hagerstown.

The owners of the Frostburg base ball team will also hold a meeting in the near future and name representatives to attend the Blue Ridge meeting in an effort to get a berth in the league.

Should Cumberland and Frostburg be taken in on the Blue Ridge circuit, eight teams will then represent the league, as follows: Hagerstown, Frederick, Martinsburg, Chambersburg, Gettysburg, Hanover, Cumberland and Frostburg. All of the teams in the Blue Ridge League last year were financial successes. Cumberland being nearly twice the size of some of the cities in the league, should be able to draw a large crowd.

By the bringing about of peace in the base ball ranks between organized base ball and the Federal league, in which the latter has been dissolved, the minor circuits will be able to get many stars for the 1916 season, and the Blue Ridge managers have their eyes fixed on a large number of these players.

The date for the annual banquet is January 28th.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

The monthly meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association will be held in the High School building Friday evening. The address will be given by Dr. J. H. Ashworth, of the college whose subject will be "Educational Unrest." The program will also include instrumental and vocal music and will consist of orchestra selections, duets, and solos. There will be several readings, and the usual period will be given to business.

MANY WITNESSES

Gettysburg and York Springs Busy with Subpoena Serving.

While officers have been busy here the past few days, summoning witnesses for the liquor license court on Friday, the activity at York Springs has been equally great, almost seven subpoenas having been served. There are some indications so that about fifty persons will come to Gettysburg to give testimony.

APARTMENT on second floor of the Duncan house, Baltimore street, will be for rent April 1st. S. D. Davis is the agent.

BEGIN ON LARGE RAILROAD WORK

Trainload of Men and Equipment Taken to Mountain to Construct Extra Tracks for the Western Maryland.

Contractors Claibourne and Johnston, Baltimore, who were awarded the contract for building an extra track on the main line of the Western Maryland railroad between Blue Mountain and Edgemont, a few days ago, are already on the job.

They have landed at Edgemont with 100 Italians and other foreigners and a whole train load of camping paraphernalia, tools, horses, carts, dynamite and provisions for man and beast. Wednesday all hands were busy pitching camp a short distance from Edgemont station, where there is plenty of "good wood, water and grass," the regular army requisite, and to-day the dirt began to fly all along the line, the work of grading beginning at Edgemont and proceeding on up the mountain to the Blue Mountain station, a distance of two and a half miles.

It is expected that this work will occupy about two months, and maybe a little more if the weather is specially unfavorable.

The survey calls for a straightening out of the curves, as far as conditions permit, and this will entail a lot of excavation and filling.

The new line of track will connect at Blue Mountain with the long siding that extends from there to the overhead bridge below Pen Mar park. There is only a short gap there between the Blue Mountain and Pen Mar sidings, and this will likely be closed up and the line be solidly double-tracked from Pen Mar station to Edgemont.

While no definite information is available it is learned on good authority that as soon as the present contract is completed work will be started on another stretch of double-tracking from Pen Mar to Blue Ridge Summit.

URGE ACTION IN MEXICAN KILLINGS

Lansing Calls on Carranza to Protect Foreigners.

CONGRESS FOR INTERVENTION

A Resolution in the Senate Demands Action in Place of "Watchful Waiting."

Washington, Jan. 13.—Developments followed quickly upon the news that sixteen or more Americans and two other persons were killed by bandits reputed to be former soldiers of General Villa, near Can Yaebel, in Chihuahua, Mexico, Monday.

As soon as assured by official despatches that the news reports were correct, Secretary of State Lansing sent a telegram to General Carranza, as head of the de facto government in Mexico, demanding prompt punishment of the men who dragged their victims from a train and shot them.

The despatch said the murdered men were traveling under safe conducts issued by military commanders of the Carranza government, and that they apparently were slain solely because they were Americans. It went by telegram to American Consul Sil Hman at Queretaro. A paraphrase of the text of the despatch follows.

"C. R. Watson, chairman of the mine and smelter operators committee, of Chihuahua, and manager of the Costeulacite Mining company, with fifteen companions, taken from a train, forty miles west of Chihuahua, stripped and shot because they were Americans, apparently in pursuit of the reported policy of Villa.

"These men killed near Chihuahua were in a zone said to be dominated by the de facto government. The forces of the de facto government at Chihuahua are said to be inept and not capable of taking care of the situation. Urge on General Carranza the necessity of the immediate issuance of instructions for adequate forces for the pursuit, capture and punishment of the bandits responsible for this dastardly outrage.

"After Chihuahua was taken possession of by General Obregon's forces many Americans returned to that district and were furnished with safe conducts by the military commanders of the de facto government. It is understood that the murdered men held such salvo conducts. Request adequate forces be sent to the different mining districts to protect life and property."

Later the secretary issued a statement declaring it was to be deplored that the Americans had not followed the state department's warning against exposing their lives in the guerrilla warfare region.

When the senate convened, Senator Sherman, Republican, of Illinois, introduced a resolution proposing intervention in Mexico by the United States and the six Pan-American nations which have acted with it in Mexican affairs, unless General Carranza complies with the demand to protect the lives and property of foreigners in the republic.

Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, the Republican leader, declared the United States should demand full and quick reparation.

In the house, Representative Dyer, Republican, introduced a similar resolution, calling on the president to inform congress if he did not believe the time had come to abandon the "watchful waiting" policy. Other members gave notice of their intention to make speeches. The administration was not without its defenders, who gave notice they also would speak.

DENIES SINKING PERSIA

Reports From All Austrian Submarines Show None Was Responsible.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Austria assured the United States that no Austrian submarine was responsible for the sinking of the British steamship Persia with the loss of two American lives.

Following the receipt of instructions from his government, Baron Erich von Zwiaduek, the Austrian charge, went to the state department and filed the formal denial. He said the Austrian admiralty has received reports from every one of its submarines operating in the Mediterranean. None was near where the Persia was sunk, and none saw the ship.

The Austrian government suggested that either a mine or an internal explosion was responsible for the loss of the Persia.

American Consul Kemp, at Marseille, called that the crew of the Persia had reached there, and reported making affidavits to the British authorities of Alexandria, Egypt. He sent no new information of the disaster.

Now Say Kaiser Is Dying.

London, Jan. 13.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Express says the Kaiser's condition is grave and there are rumors everywhere in Germany that he is dying. The correspondent says: "The Kaiser is confined to his private apartment and is nursed only by his mistress," adding "he is absolutely broken hearted owing to the impending collapse of the Kaiser's great military machine and the dangerous financial situation of the empire."

TEUTONS WILL QUIT BASES IN RUSSIA

General Evacuation of Forward Positions is Begun.

London, Jan. 13.—The Austro-Germans appear to have abandoned hope of the recapture of the territory lost in the recent fighting, according to the Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent, and as a result of Russian pressure a general evacuation of the forward bases by both Germans and Austrians is proceeding vigorously.

"For months past," adds the correspondent, "they have been accumulating immense stores for a spring advance. Vladimir-Volynskyi was the forward base of the Austrian armies; Kovel of the German armies. At both places enormous storehouses of beams and corrugated iron have been built, and when the Russian advance began they were filled from floor to roof with military stores."

"The Kovel magazines are now being hastily evacuated to Cholm, and the Vladimir-Volynskyi magazines to Sokal. These removals have been seriously hampered by the simultaneous removal of tens of thousands of men wounded in the recent fighting."

"The Bourse Gazette's Drinsk correspondent reports that the Germans have also begun the evacuation of Poulawski, in the Baltic provinces, from which everything valuable is being loaded into motor lorries and hurried by conveyed to Shavli, Libau, and the interior of Germany. The Zeppelin sheds near the town have also been dismantled."

Many Prisoners Taken.

Petrograd, Jan. 13.—According to a message from Kiev, the number of prisoners taken by the Russians in the last three weeks' fighting is much greater than was supposed.

A party of 2200 has just reached Kiev. It is said there are 10,000 more in the rear of the fighting line. This number is exclusive of the wounded, whom the Germans are said to be abandoning wholesale.

Prisoners declare that the Austro-Germans have lost 100,000 wounded in Bukovina.

70 KILLED IN BLAST

German Ammunition Depot in Lille is Blown Up.

Berlin, Jan. 13.—An ammunition depot in Lille, northern France, has been blown up.

An official announcement says seventy persons were killed and forty injured. Considerable damage to property was done. The official announcement follows:

"In the southern walled-in section of Lille an ammunition depot, belonging to the pioneer detachment lodged in one of the casemates of a fortification, blew up. The nearby street naturally suffered to a very considerable extent. Rescue measures resulted in the finding of seventy killed and forty injured inhabitants. The inhabitants believe the accident was due to an English attack."

HOW MEXICANS SLEW A SCORE

Survivor of Massacre Says Victims Were Mutilated.

"ALL GRINGOS OUT," ORDER

Americans Were Taken Off Train, Lined Up Along Railroad, Disarmed and Shot by Villa Bandits.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 13.—Thomas B. Holmes, the only one of the party to escape massacre near Chihuahua City, Mexico, when nineteen or twenty mining men, mostly Americans, were stripped and shot by bands of Villistas on January 10, arrived here with a more complete story of the killing.

He said the train was halted at two P. M. by a band of bandits, which he estimated at about two hundred.

After the Americans were taken off and lined up alongside the track they were ordered to disrobe. Realizing what was about to occur, he said he made a break for liberty, with C. R. Watson, Tom Evans and R. R. Macclatton, of the party.

They were pursued by about fifteen bandits, who shot all his companions, but missed Holmes.

He said he ran about three miles, when, noticing he was no longer pursued, he stopped, exhausted. Some ranchmen came to his assistance and lent him a mule on which he reached Chihuahua City.

Holmes said Watson's head was blown off and that after the bodies were brought to Chihuahua City it was found they had beeniddled with bullets and otherwise mutilated.

Holmes said he did not know who led the bandits.

Holmes reported further details to state department officials, as follows:

"The train left Chihuahua City at eleven o'clock, he said. "About two P. M. when we were just outside of Santa Yeabel, the train stopped and a shout from the right of way came to us."

"All Gringos get off here."

"Tom Evans, nearest to the door of the coach, dropped his magazine and went to the door, out on the platform and down the steps. I heard a shot. Watson, who was behind Evans, rushed to the door to see what had developed. I was right behind him. Watson caught sight of the bandits and swung to the right of way and ran alongside the car. I saw him fall under a volley of bullets.

"I started down the steps. Some one pushed me from behind. I fell on my face. A volley of shots went over my head. I fell into a heap of brush on the right side of way and stayed there trying to gather my wits. Meanwhile there was firing going on all around me, some bullets tearing through the brush where I was lying."

"I managed to crawl on my stomach in the brush for some little distance unobserved and then I got to my feet and ran toward Chihuahua City. Back at the train the shooting was continuous. By and by I came to a ranch house, where they gave me a mule and I reached Chihuahua City."

E. Ben Ottstad, who arrived with Holmes, said he had met him when he reached Chihuahua City.

"Holmes was badly scared," he said, "and feared to enter the city at first he had an old blanket over his shoulders and no hat. He thought the bandits were laying for Watson partur larly."

"When the bodies reached the capital it was noted that each had been shot through the forehead."

"All Americans in Chihuahua were prepared to come to the border when I left because it was uncertain whether the garrison was for or against Carranza."

Reports from Chihuahua said nine men bodies would come to the border. At the same time the names of Thomas Johnson, address unknown, and Joe Eiders, of Hayden, Ariz., a millwright, were added to the list.

Master Dead, Dog Returns.

Lebanon, Pa., Jan. 13.—Elias Lebig, fifty-five years old, a married man, who resided at the foot of the South mountains, was found dead on the mountain side. Accompanied by his dog, he had started in search of game, and was overcome by heart failure. The discovery of the body was made after Lebig's dog had returned with him.

AUSTRIANS CAPTURE LOVCEN STRONGHOLD

Teuton Success Hard Blow to Italy and Montenegro.

London, Jan. 13.—The great stronghold, Mount Lovcen, ten miles from Cattaro, which dominates the bay of Cattaro and is the Gibraltar of the Adriatic, has been captured by the Austrians, according to announcement made in Vienna.

The Austrian forces are reported advancing on Cattaro and the Montenegrin government is reported to be in flight. The archives and government treasure have been transferred to Surtut.

The capture of Mount Lovcen besides being a serious blow to the Montenegrins, who put up a stubborn defence and finally had to yield to the heavy Austrian mountain artillery, represents also a severe setback for Italy.

The question is being anxiously asked as to why the allies did not long ago send aid to the Montenegrins, and in particular why Italy, which is more acutely affected by this Austrian invasion, had not taken preventive measures.

The entire Albanian campaign will be affected by the fall of Lovcen. Lord Robert Cecil, parliamentary under secretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons that all was not well in northern Albania.

Looking up and down the table, he asked, in his inimitable flying manner: "Is there no old-clothesman here?" "No, sir," answered a guest. "Then," said Lamb, bowing his head, let us thank God."

FLASHES OF HUMOR OF EXPERIENCES ON ALL THE FRONTS

Man Moans Loss of Wrist
Watch, Buried With Amputated Arm, Calling
Remaining Stub
"Archibald."

Dr. Stefan Dettre, a Hungarian army surgeon, in a letter to his brother in New York says the thing foremost in the minds of the wounded is how soon they can get back to the fighting.

"I treated a wounded man," Dr. Dettre writes, "who distinguished himself for the capture single handed of five serfs. He was summoned before his colonel and commended for the feat and was asked what favor he would seek as a reward. Blushing like a schoolboy, the big yokel finally stammered forth that he would like to have one of the prisoners to send to his old mother as a present. It developed that the poor fellow was an only son and his widowed mother had been left alone on her tiny farm. His chief concern was that she should have a farm hand for the harvest.

"One last anecdote which had to do with an incident of the present campaign. A body of our troops became separated from the main forces on the march and suddenly found themselves attacked by an overwhelming number of the enemy. A score of field kitchens were bringing up the rear when the commissary officer in charge suddenly realized what was taking place ahead of him.

"Instead of retreating, however, he ordered his drivers to gallop forward, and the heavy lumbering ovens came thundering ahead in a swirl of dust. Immediately the enemy, thinking that our artillery was coming into action, sent a hasty retreat. Later the incident became known throughout the army, and today the pet name of the soldiers for the field kitchens is 'Gul-tasagynk' (the goulash gals)."

Girl's Letter In Sandbag.
Outside King's Cross station, London, a lark and limping Australian traveler from Timbuctoo stepped up to a man and asked for a light.

The traveler seemed just a bit strange and forsaken in London, and the Englishman who accompanied him with a chuckle asked if he had friends.

"Not in London town," the wounded man replied, "but I do have a few."

Then asking his new found acquaintance to step to where the glare of a station lamp would enable him to read, the Australian pulled from his tunic a letter and a much folded letter.

"It's from a Dundee lass," he explained, "and I'm on my way to see her and her parents and fix things up. This is how it came about: Folks in Dundee have been sending out sand bags, and it happened to be my job one day to turn them—they always arrive inside out, and fill them. Well, out of one tumbled a letter from Miss Dundee, saying if it fell into the hands of a lonely soldier she'd be glad to cheer him up with an occasional letter. I was on for that act, and we've been writing to each other ever since. I've got a precious sheep farm back in Australia, and I'm going to Dundee to try to make her see the advantage of accepting a half interest in it for life."

The Coward Who Was Cured.
"Have I ever had a case of cowardice? Yes, once, and I cured it," related an officer. "We were in a period of very heavy fighting, and one day one man came to me crying, 'Colonel,' he said, 'let me go back. I have done my best; I cannot stand it any more; I'm all broken up. It isn't my fault, I have done all I could. Let me go, colonel, let me go.'"

"I looked at him. He was a strapping giant and had been so far a good soldier. I felt sorry for the man, for I knew that he had done his best. But to yield an inch to him would have been a blow to the spirit of the regiment. 'Brown,' I said to him, 'your name was not Brown, you have got to go through with it. Take this letter to the officer commanding the front line.'"

"I was called to another section of the line, and when I came back I found that Brown had returned. He had delivered the message and brought back the receipt. I sent for him to congratulate him. I found him still in the same broken mood. 'Let me go, colonel, let me go,' he pleaded. 'I sent for you to congratulate you,' I said. 'I withdraw my congratulations. You will take another message to the front. If you are not cured then you will take another and another and another until you get your nerve back again.' It was hard, but there was nothing else for it. That man is to-day fighting in the ranks of our regiment and doing his work as well as any man there."

Tight Shoes Kill Weavers.
"Tight shoes killed Solzwick W. Vogan of Chicago, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury. Vogan, while visiting the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco, purchased a pair of shoes that pinched his feet. A blister followed and gangrene was the result."

Way With Some Men.
It is sometimes difficult for a parent to threaten his son with chastisement without giving the impression that he is merely bragging about his superior strength.

STILL DEBATE ON THE PHILIPPINES

None Rants About Retention
as Military Necessity.

NATIVES ARE ANTAGONISTIC

Listening to John Sharp Williams' Stand For Military Preparedness Almost Revelation or Like Dream, Congressional Union to Vote In Both Houses on Suffrage Amendment.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 13. (Special.)—There has not been much variation in the story about the Philippines during the past seventeen years. Speeches made at the time the United States ratified the treaty with Spain and heard in every congress since that time when the islands were the subject of conversation do not differ in tone or temperament. Perhaps there is a slight change in one particular. No one gets up now and rants about the retention of the Philippines as a military necessity. No one has the assurance to say that a large group of islands on the other side of the world, with a population of 8,000,000 Malays antagonistic to everything American, is helpful to us as a part of our national defense. But the same reasons for and against maintaining the islands are given in the debates.

Uncle Sam's Experiments.

The Philippine anhelago is one of several costly experiments by our government. Having whipped Spain in 1898 and being a little ashamed of it, we took the Philippines off her hands and gave her $20,000,000 in addition. Then we spent anywhere from $100,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 on the islands, and today the best representatives of the party in power, the party which is for a time the government, say we acquired a gold brick, and they are arguing—and what is more, may pass legislation which will sever our control of the islands, though it may not sever our relations with them. Our altruism will continue to the extent of trying to maintain a republic in a land where such an experiment is purely illusory.

His Old Partner.

Although Senator Lodge remained regular and Colonel Roosevelt led the big moose, the Massachusetts senator still has a fondness for his old partner in politics. Only recently in discussing the recognition of Carranza Lodge remarked that recognition was purely an executive matter. "I remember a few years ago," said Senator Lodge, "in taking that position when the senators on the other side were denouncing an act of recognition by a former president as 'usurpation.' Lodge referred to the recognition of Panama. Roosevelt was severely criticized by the Democrats for recognizing the republic which it is said he helped to create."

The "Skeered of Nothing."

Listening to John Sharp Williams' stand for military preparedness was almost a revelation or like a dream. It was only a few years ago that John Sharp as minority leader of the House made his famous "Skeered of Nothing" speech. It was at the time of the first dreadnoughts. We proposed to build one or two, as Great Britain was building such ships. Williams ridiculed the idea as preposterous and sarcastically advocated the building of an immense battleship and calling it the "Skeered of Nothing."

But it is different now. John Sharp who has expressed his hatred of war, who has always declared that preparations for war would bring on war, now sees visions of the United States overrun by a foreign foe.

Fifty Years a Long Time.

Congressman London, the New York Socialist, opposed the fifty year leasing plan of water power sites in the conservation bill. "Fifty years is a long time," he said. "I wonder where I will be able to meet you fifty years from now in order to replenish you for your act. I am not quite sure I am going to meet you in heaven, although I know where I am going to land as a Socialist."

Having Their Own Way.

The Congressional union, the vigorous organization handling woman suffrage in Washington, is going to have a vote in both houses on the suffrage amendment. This organization has already had the resolution it favors reported in the senate and will try to have a report made in the house at an early day.

Will Start Too Late.

For a long time there has been little to occupy the house except speech making. That was the time the advocates of the child labor bill should have utilized in order to get their bill considered. Now there will be hearings, discussions and delays, and finality when the bill is reported it will be so late in the session that it cannot be considered.

National Defense.

Reading the Congressional Record these days one gets an idea that national defense consists in easing the treasury of a little money here and there. J. Hamilton Moore would spend a few hundred millions for an inland waterway, Congressman Borah, who lives in Kansas City, would have a few millions spent for the Missouri river; a Minnesota man would have a military academy at Fort Snelling and a California man a naval academy on the Pacific coast.

Happy Ending, for Audience.

"Did the play have a happy ending?" "You bet it did. Someone in the gallery hit the villain square in the face with a tomato."—Houston Post.

Medical Advertising TREAT CATARRH BY NATURE'S METHOD

Every Breath of Hyomei Carries Healing Medicated Air to the Infected Membrane.

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it with sprays, lotions, and the like. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes. Until recently your physician would probably have said the only way to help catarrh would be to have a change of climate but now with a simple preparation called Hyomei you can carry a health-giving climate in your vest pocket, and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day successfully treat yourself.

The complete Hyomei outfit is inexpensive and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a life time, and if one bottle does not give permanent relief, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained at any time for a trifling sum. It is more economical than all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only treatment known to us that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

The Peoples' Drug Store have sold a great many Hyomei outfits and the more they sell, the more convinced they are, that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not relieve.

Just a few days' use and the hair becomes glossy and healthy looking, dandruff vanishes, scalp stops itching and hair stops falling out. Parisian Sage is more than a hair tonic. It is a scalp treatment and its use means strong, beautiful hair and a healthy scalp. The Peoples' Drug Store and leading druggists everywhere sell Parisian Sage. It is not expensive.

FRESHMAN KILLED IN BOWL FIGHT

Penn Student Crushed to Death in Scrimmage.

THREE OTHERS IN HOSPITAL

William Lifson, of Elizabeth, N. J., is Suffocated Under Mass of Struggling Men.

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—William L. Lifson, seventeen years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, was killed in the annual freshman-sophomore bowl fight, held on the lawn of the Commercial Museum, Thirty-third and Spruce streets.

A number of other students were injured, three of whom are still in the hospital.

Lifson was found at the bottom of the heap of several struggling students when the second half of the bowl fight ended. He had literally been crushed to death. Lifson was carried from the field by four of his friends, a passing motor truck was pressed in to service and he was rushed to the University hospital.

The doctors worked desperately to revive him, using the pulmonary, injections of strychnine and other strong stimulants but without success. It is believed that life was extinct before he was extricated from the mass of fighting students. There were no marks on the body and he was evidently suffocated.

As soon as he heard of the tragedy, Captain of Detectives Cameron sent about fifteen members of the murder squad to the university with instructions to make a thorough investigation. The coroner also sent his detectives to the scene to aid the investigation.

It was finally decided not to arrest any of the students engaged in the contest. A number of them will be subpoenaed to appear at the coroner's inquest, however. Both the coroner's detectives and Detective Callahan are satisfied that Lifson's death was entirely accidental. Provost Smith will call on the coroner and explain how Lifson was killed.

The bowl fight, the last of the five interclass contests between the freshmen and the sophomores, is divided into two halves, each of ten minutes duration. During the first half the freshmen try to push their bowl man through the ranks of the sophomores and over a given line, while the sophomores strive to catch the bowl man and seat him in the wooden bowl.

In the second half the two classes form around the bowl, which is guarded by twelve stalwart sophomores. At a given signal there is a free fight, with every student fighting to reach the bowl and get his hands on it, for the class wins which has most hands on it at the end of the period. Those who reach the bowl first are always knocked down and others pile on top of them. Lifson was evidently caught at the bottom in such a way that he could not breathe and he was suffocated.

Provost Edgar F. Smith, of the university, was shocked beyond measure when informed by the hospital authorities of Lifson's death, but said he had not yet decided what action to take, but that in view of the fatality, the bowl fight should be abolished.

MINERS FIGHT CONSCRIPTION

British Labor Union Threatens a General Strike.

London, Jan. 12.—The most serious move yet contemplated in opposition to conscription was made by the executive committee of the Miners' Federation, the strongest union in the United Kingdom, when by a vote of two to one it decided to submit to a referendum of the miners a resolution for a national strike against the enforcement of the military service bill. Such a strike would mean the crippling of the British fleet, munitions factories and railroads.

Together with news of this action came word that the Welsh Federation of Coal Miners, by a vote of 162 to 82 had adopted a resolution in favor of a walkout of miners in England, Scotland and Wales, in case the military service bill were passed and that a resolution condemning conscription had been passed by South Wales coal miners in Cardiff, 211 to 35.

ARREST IN WHOLESALE BLACKMAILING CASE

Rich Men Paid $250,000 to Escape Prosecution.

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—A band of blackmailers, with headquarters in Philadelphia, which coerced scores of well-to-do men in this and other cities along the Atlantic coast into paying a total of more than $250,000 to escape supposed white slave prosecutions, was brought to light when Don Collins was arrested in New York.

Wholesale arrests in at least five cities in Pennsylvania and other cities in adjoining states are expected at any minute, according to the local federal officers. The arrest of Collins revealed that he was the captain of a band of men, working in at least seven known states on the coast, who victimized only wealthy men, by impersonating department of justice detectives, the federal authorities say.

According to the government sleuths Collins was aided in his work by a score of accomplices. These black mailers would wait in the railroad stations, wharves and hotels. There they would wait for some prominent man to appear, preferably a married man, who might be bringing a woman from another state into Pennsylvania for immoral purposes, was the way the band put it. He was taken to the federal building and permitted to go as far as the lobby. There the blackmailers would agree to free him for a stipulated sum, which the victim, desperate, would usually manage to scrape together. But the blackmailers would not stop here, compelling the "prisoner" to promise more money under pain of having his wife notified.

This done, the victim was arrested as a violator of the Mann white slave law, "importing a woman from another state into Pennsylvania for immoral purposes," was the way the band put it. He was taken to the federal building and permitted to go as far as the lobby. There the blackmailers would agree to free him for a stipulated sum, which the victim, desperate, would usually manage to scrape together. But the blackmailers would not stop here, compelling the "prisoner" to promise more money under pain of having his wife notified.

STRIKERS' RANKS BROKEN

Eight Carmen Returning to Work in Wilkes-Barre.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 12.—For the first time since the carmen's strike was called on October 14, 1917, the ranks of the strikers broke.

Eight union men were placed in complete charge of the Harvey's Lake division, this number being sufficient to man all cars on the regular schedule.

Reports from headquarters of the Wilkes-Barre Railway company are to the effect that thirty of the strikers, all told, have asked for reinstatement, and have agreed to return to work as soon as arrangements can be made to give them runs.

Strike leaders admit that there has been a break in the ranks, but say that only a few men have deserted, and that some of these were not members of the union.

All strikers who return to work will be paid on the sliding scale basis, as fixed by the board of arbitration. The question of the legality of this award is the cause of the strike.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FOR BEEF EATERS.

—Select a good thick slice of top of the round, rub both sides with two teaspoonsful of olive oil blended with two teaspoonsful of vinegar. Allow this to stand an hour. Place a large sized iron spider over hot fire and when smoking lay in the steak, turning often. Season well with salt and pepper and when cooked to liking lay on a hot platter in which a good sized piece of butter has been melting. Make a gravy of browned butter and flour seasoned with salt, pepper, kitchen bouquet, dash of ground cloves and enough water to make the desired quantity. Pour this over the steak on the hot platter. This will give you a juicy, tender steak unlike that prepared in the ordinary way.

Beef à la Mode.—Three pounds of round steak, chopped fine, two well beaten eggs, four soda crackers rolled fine, a teaspoonful salt and a teaspoonful sage, one-half teaspoonful pepper, two tablespoonsful milk. Roll into a loaf, mixing well, and bake two hours.

Mock Hamburg Steak.—Roll one-half cupful of lentils until they are soft, then drain and mash. Add four tablespoonsful of strained tomatoes, a well beaten egg, two tablespoonsful of peanut butter rubbed smooth with a little hot water, one-half cupful of bread and cracker crumbs, a little chopped onion, with salt, pepper and sage to season. Mold into patties and fry. The amount will serve five persons.

Tomato Gravy to serve with the above is made as follows: A teaspoonful of canned tomatoes, two teaspoonsful of flour to thicken; season with salt, pepper and sage. Strain over meat.

Steak With Macaroni.—Use a small flank steak, a can tomatoes, two small onions, chopped; a green pepper, chopped, one-third package macaroni, cooked; a level teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful pepper, a teaspoonful kitchen bouquet, two level teaspoonsful butter.

Trim and score the steak. Lay it flat on a board, sprinkle with salt, pepper and the chopped vegetables; roll and tie.

Put butter into a pot, melt; brown the meat in this, add a cupful boiling water and the tomatoes and cook slowly until the meat is tender.

Farewell Romance

The wild and woolly bandit now, before he bids the girl adieu, must have himself with slugs of ginger ale. The Indian chief, who comes to town to sell the muskrat crop. And hear the news, for look of booze gets lit on soda pop. The holding combat has to use, when he would get a jag out. The artless aid of leonardo—the west is on the wagon!

No more they shan't sad men, who come to the great moon. Upon the way to Berlin lay on somewhere round the horn. Though soft drinks could be crowded down a mariner no doubt, it takes a pull of Clatsop ale to put a sailor out. The picturesque and wicked crimp has vanished quite away. STUDY ENEMY'S TONGUE.

Prisoners in All Nations Are Learning to Speak Various Languages.

The war is turning out more linguists than the universities did before the conflict began. A Petrograd dispatch states that many of the German prisoners are devoting themselves seriously to learning Russian, and the same is the case in France, where there is a great demand for French grammars among German prisoners. German has been made the court language of Bulgaria. The French are applying themselves assiduously to the study of English to increase the feeling of fraternity among the allies in France, and the English are reciprocating by learning French.

The most backward students are the British prisoners in Germany, who refuse to learn the German tongue, although there are exceptions.

KILLED FIVE IN REVENGE.

Wife Died on Lusitania, Massachusetts. Man Enlisted in British Army.

James Cooper, once a mill overseer in New Bedford, Mass., who joined the British army after the loss of his wife and child with the Lusitania, has written to American friends in that city that in a fight on the Gallipoli peninsula he jumped out of a trench, rushed to the opposing lines and killed five of the enemy without receiving a wound. Cooper said his act was inspired by the remembrance of what happened to the Lusitania.

LOOKING FOR WORK

Everywhere men complain about work, even boys and girls in school or business find work tedious and irksome, but it isn't the work half so much as their own lack of physical strength that makes it hard.

Rich blood, strong lungs and healthy digestion make work pleasurable in business, in school or even housework, and if those who are easily tired—who are not sick, but weak and nervous—would just take Scott's Emulsion for one month and let its pure concentrated food create richer blood to pulsate through every artery and vein—let it build a structure of healthy tissue and give you vigorous strength—you would find work easy and would look for more. Insist on Scott's. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-25

Whenever I have taken them since, they have done good work."

For Bronchitis, Severe Coughs Colds And Whooping Cough

Make the Best Medicine at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 Cents

Money spent for the old style, ready-made medicine usually sold in bottles holding only 2 to 2 1/2 ounces (16 to 20 teaspoonfuls) is largely wasted, because most of them are composed principally of sugar and water. Yet you have to pay the same price as if it were all medicine. Stop wasting this money. You can make a better remedy for bronchial affections, at home at one-fifth the cost. Merely go to The People's Drug Store and ask for New Concentrated Expectorant, which they guarantee will give perfect satisfaction or money will be refunded. Mix this with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, which makes a full pint (128 teaspoonfuls). This new, simple, pleasant remedy is guaranteed to relieve the worst cough or cold. Bronchial. Asthma. Bronchitis. Croup. Hoarseness and Whooping Cough. One bottle will make enough home-made medicine to probably last the whole family the entire winter. Children like it, it is so pleasant to take. It is unlike any other medicine, and positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or other narcotics, as do most cough mixtures. Keep it on hand in case of emergency and stop each cough before it gets a firm hold. The above druggist in this city, will return the money (just the same as is done with Schiffmann's famous Asthma-tor) in every single case where it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the best remedy ever used. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy—under this positive guarantee.

The great disparity of higher prices on raw cotton between now and some months ago created very strong price advances on all kinds of Cotton Fabrics since June 1915.

We had placed heavy orders for Heavy Cottons, such as MUSLINS and BED MUSLINS, SHEETS, CASES &c., LONG CLOTHS and CAMBRICS to reach near January 1st, 1916. Also MANUFACTURED MUSLIN UNDERWEAR which they could be had at or near old prices.

The possibility is no likelihood in the judgment of those close to the primary market of any lower prices on Raw Materials this year. Add to the present price of Raw Cotton the higher wages paid everywhere in Textile Mills makes us able to give assurances that our present prices, on every character of Cotton Goods now affected, cannot be duplicated again this season.

A BEST SELLER

By MARY C. ATWOOD

"Comstock has got out a new novel, I see," said Collins to Bartholow.

"Yes; Comstock is making money. How did he get his start?"

"By a misfortune."

"Come, cease to excite my curiosity and tell me the story."

"It was this way; Comstock tried scribbling at home, but made no success. Whether he wrote over the heads of the people, or under them, I don't know. His stories didn't sell. But Comstock had talent, and all he wanted was something to start him. One of his friends told him to go abroad. All Americans who succeed in literature make their living abroad, his friend said, and if Comstock was going to succeed he'd have to go too. There's a literary atmosphere there that doesn't exist here. Besides, the crowned heads take an interest in literary work, and a king may make an author if he chooses."

"Comstock was persuaded and went abroad. He picked up a living for awhile in London writing for the English magazine papers, then went on to the continent. He finally drifted to Constantinople, where he liked it so well that he stayed there a long while and learned the language perfectly."

"All this while fame refused to perch on his banner, but poverty did. When he was pretty near starved in Constantinople he got a job to write a serial novel for a daily newspaper there. He was to fill two columns a day, no more and no less. The price he was paid for his work was just enough to keep him alive."

"It happened that he struck a vein that was natural to him, and a good one too. He became absorbed in his work and was glad to be absorbed, he said it made him forget his troubles. But having only enough writing to do each day to occupy three or four hours, he spent the rest of his time planning ahead. He would lay out impossible situations just to keep himself busy solving them. As for his general plan, that was so intricate that no one would ever suppose it possible to extricate his hero from the entanglement into which an adverse fate had cast him."

"One day while he was at work on his story he was astounded to see two policemen enter his den. Without a word of explanation he was ordered to follow them and bring with him his manuscript. It occurred to him that something he had written in his novel about the government might have caused his arrest, but this could not be, for on his arrival he was not only permitted to keep what he had written, but was commanded to finish his work. That he might be well situated to do so, he was given pleasant quarters and plenty to eat and drink. At first he was so frightened that he could not write, whereupon a member of the government sent him word that he was in no danger. This gave him courage, and he pursued his task."

"If he was anxious to kill time before his arrest he was now doubly so. He invented new complications and unraveled them. The situation grew more involved the nearer he approached the end, just as a stone revolved about a stick moves more rapidly as the string is shortened. He devoted every minute of his time and every fiber of his brain to his work and at the end of a few weeks after his imprisonment wrote the concluding chapter."

"When his story was finished he dreaded the long hours of confinement during which he would be free to brood upon his situation. He had not received the slightest information as to his offense. But he had not long to fret. As soon as his work was finished his prison doors were thrown open and he was permitted to go out a free man, besides being given a large bag of gold."

"As soon as he was released he made inquiries of officials high in the service of the government as to why he had been arrested and thrown into prison and whence came the money."

"And what do you suppose was the reason given? The sultan had one day picked up a copy of the newspaper in which his story was running and became interested in it. Too impatient to wait for it to come out from day to day in small quantities, he had taken a course to hasten the denouement."

"Comstock was just tickled to death. He sent in a request through one of the sultan's household asking if the sultan would give him a puff to print with the publication of his novel in America. He was told that the sultan couldn't come down to that, but Comstock hit on the expedient of writing out a brief account of the matter for the newspapers. This he translated into English and got it started in American journals."

"Well, he published his novel, of course, just as these notices about his being imprisoned because the sultan of Turkey couldn't wait to see how it was coming out were being copied from paper to paper, and everybody was crazy to read the book. One edition after another was run out by the presses as fast as the printers got dizzy, but couldn't supply the demand. Comstock made twenty or thirty thousand dollars out of the story, and publishers are waiting for him when he gets up in the morning to secure a contract for his next."

"What was the name of this Turkish story?"

"I don't remember the name, but it stood first in a lot of six best-sellers."

PUBLIC HEALTH WORK MATERIALLY BROADENED.

What Government Bureau is Doing to Combat Disease.

The annual report of Surgeon General Blue of the United States public health service records the largest amount of work done in the history of that organization. Since the passage of the law of 1912 the public health functions of the service have materially broadened. The report lays stress on the economic importance of disease prevention.

Scientific investigations of malarial infection showed that the most important agent in carrying the infection through the winter season is man, and not the mosquito, as was previously supposed. Studies of occupational diseases and industrial hygiene were instituted at several places during the year. A survey of the industries of Cincinnati was made to determine the cause of the prevalence of tuberculosis among industrial workers. The investigations relating to the migration of persons suffering from tuberculosis were completed.

Investigations of the pollution of streams and the examination of shellfish were also conducted. Trachoma was combated in the Appalachian mountains, where it is most prevalent, over 12,000 cases being treated. Surveys in various states during the year showed that the disease is not an uncommon infection.

Rural sanitation work was conducted in six states and everywhere resulted in the reduction of typhoid and other communicable diseases.
